

NCAA Division I Men's All-America Teams Announced by NSCAA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (December 9, 2016) – The National Soccer Coaches Association of America announced on Friday the 2016 NSCAA NCAA Division I Men's All-America Teams.

Indiana University senior midfielder Tanner Thompson (Granite Bay, Calif.) is the only player among this year's honorees to earn First Team All-America honors for a second time in his collegiate career. In addition, University of Delaware senior forward Guillermo Delgado (Tres Cantos, Spain) receives All-America recognition for a fourth consecutive season.

The four teams competing at tonight's NCAA Division I Men's Soccer College Cup are represented by a total of eight All-Americans, led by three selections each for Wake Forest and Stanford.

This year's NSCAA NCAA Division I Men's All-America Teams feature a total of 36 players, who will be formally acknowledged for their accomplishments at the NSCAA All-America Luncheon on January 14, 2017 at the Los Angeles Convention Center in conjunction with the 2017 NSCAA Convention.

In addition to today's All-America Teams announcement, the 2016 NSCAA NCAA Division I Men's All-Region Teams have been posted in the "Awards Central" section of NSCAA.com.
